

Exports of frozen fresh chili peppers to South Korea are stable

Detail Introduction :

"China, one of the world's major pepper-producing countries, has a wide distribution of pepper-producing areas and huge annual output. This year, due to plant expansion and relatively stable climate conditions, pepper production in Guizhou has increased significantly, but in some other major producing areas, Xinjiang, Inner Mongolia, Jilin, etc. have been affected by extreme weather, and pepper production has decreased compared with previous years. Looking at the overall situation, nationwide, the total pepper production this year is basically the same as last year." Mr. Bai said in an interview with FRESHPLAZA.

"Our frozen fresh peppers come from our own fresh pepper planting base covering an area of 1 million mu and a cooperative management and control base of 20 million mu. It can be continuously supplied throughout the year, and the peak season is from the end of October to the following February. In terms of market price, the current price is basically the same as that of the same period last year."

"Our frozen fresh peppers are mainly exported, mainly to Korean distributors and pepper product factories that make frozen peppers. The monthly shipment to South Korea can reach 70-100 containers, and the annual export volume can reach 20-30,000 tons. "